

Part Two: Resource Planning

To effectively manage a contact center, you need a solid planning and management framework. Forecasting, staffing, and scheduling activities should be collaborative, focused on customer needs and expectations, and built on appropriate service level and response time objectives.